THE PROPERTY

Opportunity

The Plough is a historic, detached, white rendered building under a red clay tile roof. The premises is available freehold with vacant possession.

Location

The property is located at the junction of Coleshill Lane and The Hill opposite the Green. It occupies a plot measuring approximately 0.56 acres. The building is positioned centrally within the site with its principal elevation west facing towards the Green. A large trade garden can be found to the front, with car parking at the rear.

Winchmore Hill is a small village located approximately 3.6 miles south west of Amersham and 4.2 miles north of Beaconsfield.

Arrangement

The premises was previously used as a pub and Italian restaurant with a small Italian produce shop. The main trade spaces are set out at either end of the main bar area. A large commercial kitchen, stores, above ground cellarage and office provide the necessary back of house functions. One room was utilised as a shop space, however this could be brought back into use by the wider pub/restaurant operation.

An independent access serves the first floor, which is arranged as three small flats previous used as staff accommodation. Two of the units are accessed externally across a flat roof section at the rear.

The customer car parking area is served by a single access off Coleshill Lane and is suitable for approximately 30 vehicles. The trade garden is to the front of the building overlooking the green and is defined by a small picket fence.
